LORE

Home Interiors

A place where time folds gently into space, where traces of the past linger on every surface, and imagination takes shape in unexpected forms. Living Lore is a story in motion, a narrative composed of symbols, memories, and bold reinterpretations. Each piece reflects a layering of styles and influences, brought together in a vision of living that feels both timeless and new.

Set within the rarefied beauty of Villa San Martino, the collection unfolds in perfect harmony with its surroundings. Nestled in a natural amphitheatre, the villa reveals itself through light and stillness, framing glimpses of the landscape like a series of intimate tableaux.

Designed by Tommaso Buzzi in the late 1930s as a retreat for the Necchi Campiglio family, the villa shares a quiet kinship with Villa Necchi Campiglio in Milan, the iconic residence conceived by Piero Portaluppi.

In this setting of quiet grandeur, Living Lore becomes a modern cabinet of curiosities: a dialogue of textures, patterns, and silhouettes, where past inspirations are transformed through contemporary eyes. The presence of bamboo motifs, the richness of textiles, the sculptural strength of precious materials. Each element tells a story of craft and vision, of interiors that invite reflection and reveal character.

Here, where space becomes emotion, the home is reimagined as a living narrative: fluid, layered, and ever evolving.
